The membership of the Loyola Student Council has been decreased from twenty-seven men to twelve as a result of a resolution passed at the meeting held September 26.

The resolution, introduced as an amendment to the constitution of the Council, was first brought before the body at the previous meeting, but required a delay to allow for full consideration by the members.

The amendment, as passed, limits membership on the Council to the President of the Student Body, the president of the Athletic Association, the presidents of the four classes, four representatives of the extra-curricular activities and an extra representative each for the sophomore and junior classes.

Appointed by President

The latter two representatives are to be appointed to the Council by the President, Robert Cadigan, with the approval of the Council.

The amendment was discussed for approximately sixty minutes before being unanimously adopted.

Immediately after this, the activities' heads caucused and elected from their number Robert Heymann, Daniel Fall, Jerome Frese and Robert McGrain to represent the activities.

O'Connor To Head Alumni Committee To Aid College Development Program

Plans are being made for a kick-off meeting to be held next Tuesday night for the Alumni Special Gifts Divisions in the drive to raise funds for the $2,500,000 Development Program for Loyola College. The meeting, scheduled for 8 p.m. in Xavier Lounge, will feature the Evergreen Glee Club leading the Alumni in the singing of the "Alma Mater" and rendering the "Fight Song".

The Special Gifts Divisions will have for its chairman former Senator Herbert R. O'Connor, '17, it was announced by Pierce J. Flanagan, Jr., general chairman for the entire development operation. Senator O'Connor has been active in the affairs of the school for many years and is presently a member of the President's Advisory Board.

Mr. Flanagan has also enlisted the aid of two local businessmen,

William K. McGuirk, Jr., president of the Davidson Chemical Company, and Arthur J. O'Brien, president of Steward & Company, as vice chairmen of the Development Program.

On the announcement of Senator O'Connor's appointment, Mr. Frank O'Hern of the Development Office noted that the new Special Gifts Divisions would aid in consolidating the program in regards to contacting members of the Alumni for financial assistance.

Senator O'Connor will be aided in this project by Francis B. Burch, '41, and R. Emmet Bradley, '22, who have been named vice chairmen for the new divisions. Frank C. Horigan, '25, has been named secretary.

The Special Gifts Division will consist of a General Development Council and two Special Gifts sec-

Mask & Rapier Preparing New Fall Production

You Can't Take It With You, the Kaufman-Hart comedy of quirks, will be delivered November 8, 9 and 10 at 8 p.m. in Cohn Hall by the Dramatics Society.

"The play is a basically hilarious situation comedy peppered with light, naturally funny lines," commented Daniel Fitz Simons, president of the Society.

Tax, boyfriend, and eccentric personality problems crowd around grandfather Martin Vanderhof, who generously permits his collected relatives and friends to have the run of his home, the scene of the play.

Appearing in the farce are: Mary Brittan, and Margaret Warren of Mt. St. Agnes; Margaret Kuhn, Alice Myra Wattfield, Joan Giber, and Barbera Sanders of Notre Dame of Maryland, all distaff side; Edward Reese, Gordon Hasenei, John Kenney, John W. Kenney, James Molloy, Vincent Cucina, Daniel Fitz Simons, Joseph Krollicki, and Jed Downey of Loyola. Robert Dunn will direct the show.

MEDIEVAL HISTORY IS TOPIC OF SHEA HISTORY ACADEMY

The initial meeting of the John Gilmary Shea History Academy was held Thursday evening, September 27, at the home of its president, John Synodinos.

Twenty-two members, including moderator, Dr. William D. Hoyt, attended. Of this number, fourteen were new members, recruited from the freshman and sophomore classes.

During the meeting, new members were introduced, a general topic for the coming semester was selected and possible sites for a field trip were discussed.

From a total of twelve suggested areas, the club chose Medieval History as its subject for the term. J. Mark Fuqua and William Campbell volunteered to prepare a joint paper covering the period in general for the next meeting.

In regard to the site for the field trip, the final choice between Williamsburg and Saint Mary's county was postponed until a future meeting.

The General Council will be made up of over 100 outstanding Alumni. The members of this Council will act in an advisory capacity and in many cases they will aid in the soliciting.

Each section will be composed of a number of individual teams captained by leading men from the Alumni membership. The first section, which is to contain six teams, will be led by Leo A. Codd, '15, and Harry J. Devlin, '38, co-chairmen. C. Ferdinand Sybert, '22, and John B. Farrell, '41, co-chairmen of the second section, will direct an additional nine teams.

With respect to other phases of the drive for support, a meeting was held on September 27 at Evergreen to make preliminary plans for an organized appeal to members of industry and business in Baltimore and the surrounding areas.

SCHOOL RETREATS SET TOMORROW

By Donald Hagan

The school retreat for underclassmen will be given in the student chapel by the Reverend John Curley, S.J., October 16 to 19. At the same time a senior retreat will be given by the Reverend Duval Hilbert, S.J., at Manresa-on-the-Severn. The retreats will last from Tuesday to Friday. The retreat for Freshmen, under the Reverend William J. Driscoll, S.J., will

Sodality Holds Closed Retreat

The Sodality of the Immaculate Conception at Loyola College will hold its first annual closed retreat at the Cistercian Monastery, Berryville, Virginia, on October 16 through 19. The retreat will be conducted by the Rev. Francis A. Wallner, S.J.

The primary activity of the Sodality during the first semester will be the instruction of new members. Loyola has also offered its help in organizing Sodalities in neighboring schools. In line with this effort, Rev. Francis X. Knott, S.J., moderator of the Sodality, has begun interviewing prospective members for the Mt. St. Agnes Sodality.

BUSINESS CLUB MAY SELL ADS

A record number of candidates showed interest in the Management Club at the first meeting.

Salvatore Marzullo, the president, opened the meeting by introducing the tentative plans and purposes of the club. Tours are planned to places of interest concerning advertising, public relations, and marketing. The club intends to study the manufacturing process from start to finish.

A project for the year was suggested so as to give members an opportunity to gain experience in selling. This plan is to assist the seniors by co-ordinating the sales of yearbook ads.

The club, which is made up mainly of Business and Accounting Majors, was introduced to the officers who included Bob Duke and Jerry Cox, vice presidents, Hank Bower, liaison man, and Pete Knapp, secretary-treasurer.

Who was seen at window #133 of the Department of Motor Vehicles searching registration files to determine the identity of certain automobiles parked on the campus, but not registered with the Dean of Men's Office? The traffic committee doesn't miss a trick!

Dick Kinlein wants to know why the tennis courts are not used for parking space. Or, if that doesn't work, he suggests paving the athletic field and calling it "Nevergreen". An asphalt athletic field would be fine for rugby games, but the soccer and lacrosse teams would probably have something to say about it.

Bob (Chaucerbury Tales) Geckle is reportedly considering buying a wrecking truck to cash in on the increase in local towing business.

Whoever is responsible for the rash of new parking signs erected on the campus should check the one near the science building. It reads "ON Parking".

Now that the student council has trimmed itself down into a more exclusive debating society (see page one) the Watchdog suggests the following as possible Friday morning debate topics: (1) Parking meters should be erected on campus. RESOLVED:

- (2) The card players should be provided with a poker table.
- (3) The editors of the Evergreen Quarterly and the Evergreen Annual should be provided with keys to their offices.
- (4) Somebody should provide the girls at NDM with a new record player.

Or, perhaps the council could discuss these stimulating topics:

- (1) Was Orestes really a Democrat?
- (2) Why does the student council have a treasurer?
- (3) Why doesn't the student council have a treasury?
- (4) What does the Greyhound want with a pup tent?
- (5) Why does the Greyhound print the Watchdog?

Yearbook Plans Include New Expansion

The 1957 edition of the Evergreen Annual will be a departure from the traditional Loyola yearbook. This departure will affect both the page designs of the book and its contents.

In designing, the Annual will utilize two basic geometric figures, the arc and the ellipse, to accent the pictures. The art-work will further use several shades of grey to lend a three-dimensional effect.

The yearbook's editorial board has been concerned with the idea prevalent among the underclassmen that the publication is for seniors only. Hence, they have decided to amend the content to include, not only individual portraits of every underclassman, but also candid photographs of all phases of student life at the College. Everything from the Freshman Orientation to the activities on the last day before the final printing of the yearbook will be recorded.

In addition, the Annual will present a new section, one devoted entirely to the Evening School and Graduate Division of Loyola. According to Editor Bob Mead, "This addition, plus our more effective coverage of underclass activity, should tend toward a more complete picture of Loyola".

Business Manager Dave Greenwood has announced that fund campaign is now in progress to realize the yearbook's goal of $7500. In pointing out this goal is $3000 in excess of last year's operating budget, Greenwood expressed the feeling of the staff that this amount is necessary to publish a book representative of Loyola. He continued, "Our goal is not too high if we consider that Mt. St. Mary's operates on more than $10,000; if we can rival them in basketball, there is no reason why Loyola cannot approach this figure and rival them in yearbook finance."

The price of the yearbook will be ten dollars for seniors and six dollars for underclassmen; however, the underclass rate is subject to two qualifications. If the entire amount is paid before January 10, the cost will be only five dollars.

Pershing Rifles Pledging Members

Loyola's Pershing Rifle Trick Drill Team will participate in a parade in Druid Hill Park Saturday commemorating Columbus Day. There will be a drill competition among the marching units taking part in the program.

The Drill Team has been practicing since the early days of the school year for this and other events they will attend in the next few weeks. Under the direction of 1st. Lt. Eugene Smallwood, faculty moderator, and Cadet Capt. John Yuhn, company commander, the Evergreen unit will follow a schedule consisting of two to five hours of drill per week.

New Dean Of Men Busy With Traffic

The Rev. Joseph P. Logan, S.J., has been assigned to Loyola College as Dean of Men replacing the Rev. Robert P. Arthur, S.J., who is now at St. Joseph's College in Philadelphia. In addition to teaching Freshman Religion, Fr. Logan is moderator of the Glee Club.

After completing his studies at St. Charles College, Fr. Logan went on to Woodstock College where he received a Licentiate in Philosophy. He made his Theological studies at Woodstock also, after spending a year at Scranton University. He is originally from Philadelphia.

Not New to Office

While teaching philosophy at Scranton University, Fr. Logan was Assistant Dean of Men and, consequently, is familiar with that office. He was moderator of the Woodstock College Choir in 1952.

New Parking Regulations

Parking space on the campus has long been one of the Dean of Men's most pressing problems here at Evergreen, and new parking regulations went into effect this fall. Fr. Logan has announced plans for a special "traffic committee" whose function will be to aid in the enforcement of the new regulations and to serve in an advisory capacity. It will be composed of members of the Student Council.

Problem of Space

"There are 124 spaces on the campus," said Fr. Logan. "Do you have any ideas on how they should be apportioned? If so, see the traffic committee."

Fr. Logan also announced that his office will function for coordination of campus social functions in cooperation with the Student Council. Special forms for the reservation of college facilities are available in the Dean of Men's Office.

Rev. Joseph P. Logan, S.J.

Bandwagons For Ike

One of our correspondents, whose letter is published on this page today, has come up with a rather interesting statement which we would like to question. He states simply that "Bandwagons are boobs!"

We were made curious by this sally and, upon delving into the nearest dictionary, we discovered that he feels that to be "on the winning or popular side as in an election" is indeed a shameful thing, a deed which calls upon sanity for vengeance. Obviously, one of our columnists could wreak havoc upon the logic of this statement in a stirring manner. But this is not our intent.

Our intent in picking out this statement is to show how easily one can misrepresent one's viewpoint by a simple stray phrase. Our own statement about success was, to all indications, equally misunderstood. We did not mean that the fact of losing once in a bid for the presidency forever disqualifies a man from that office. We simply meant that the past records of the two men show President Eisenhower to have succeeded in virtually everything he has ever undertaken. We do not see such a brilliant record bearing Mr. Stevenson aloft.

It was Eisenhower along who mapped the grand strategy of the war in Europe, Eisenhower alone who brought about an acceptable peace in Korea, Eisenhower alone who electrified the world with his "open skies" policy—a policy which President Truman invented but could not dramatize sufficiently to attract any attention at the time.

Stevenson has never met the challenges which Eisenhower has met and faced down. He served well as Governor of Illinois and passably in the United Nations. It is quite true that his only failures to date have been the failure to win the last election and his inability to create a new Democratic ideal to replace the tired notions of the post-depression period.

President Eisenhower is not without his faults and we would be the last to deny them. In 1952 he made several wild statements about the farm problem, promises which he found he could not keep. Lack of knowledge is no excuse for those mistakes; a man of Stevenson's calibre would have checked first and spoken second. The President has further surrounded himself with a group of men who are marvelously adept at choosing the wrong phrase at the wrong time. "Unleashing Chiang", "Agonizing reappraisal", "Massive retaliation" and "Hound dog" will go down in history as blunders costly to America. Talbot's use of official stationery for private advantage will probably last as long as Vaughn's deep freeze and Fall's "teapot" in the pages of American history.

But we feel most strongly that these faults are greatly outweighed by the credit side of the ledger. Mistakes in high office are as inevitable as they are deplorable, but they are not the sole criterion by which an administration can be judged. The American people must look at the record of the total product of Republican government and decide whether it is what they wish or as much as they wish.

As was the case with the Editor of this paper four years ago, we feel that Ike is the better of two good men. We feel we are "on the bandwagon" and are proud to support the President. Should the American people decide that Stevenson is a more suitable man for the office we would back him proudly, too. Whoever is elected will need the support of all citizens in the days ahead.

(The editorial opinions expressed in this paper are those of the author and not necessarily those of the school, the faculty or any other person.)

Thought For Today

To courageous, self-reliant men, with confidence in the power of free and fearless reasoning applied through the processes of popular government, no danger flowing from speech can be deemed clear and present, unless the incidence of the evil apprehended is so imminent that it may befall before three is an opportunity for full discussion . . . Only an emergency can justify repression. Such must be the rule if authority is to be reconciled with freedom. Such, in my opinion, is the command of the Constitution. It is, therefore, always open to Americans to challenge a law abridging free speech and assembly by showing that there was no emergency justifying it.

—Louis D. Brandeis

Letters
To Editor

To the Editor of the Greyhound,
No one would seriously question the propriety of the Editor expressing his views on current affairs. On the contrary, it is encouraging to find that the ideas, gleaned within the bounds of the academy, are being tested and measured by contemporary circumstances. Since the Editor has been so bold as to venture an opinion on the Presidential Elections, he must obviously afford us the same opportunity.

The basic appeal made in September 26th's editorial was to the fact that Mr. Stevenson is a "proven failure" and Mr. Eisenhower is a "proven success." It should not be necessary to note that success is not the norm for judging whether or not either of these men should be elected. Bandwagons are boobs! Reasonable men demand some more persuasive motive for their actions.

The Editor apparently recognized this when he went on to enumerate the reasons for his opinion. He expressed three reasons for supporting Mr. Eisenhower:

1. he halted the "trend toward socialism"
2. he has modernized our military establishment
3. he has maintained the dignity of his high office.

On this basis, the Editor concluded that Ike has given us a competent and honest administration.

First, the three "accomplishments—" Ike halted what "trend toward socialism." When, since at least 1936, has it been the policy of any Administration or Party to secure the ownership of all the means of production for the Federal Government? Unless this has been the avowed or implicit intent of the Democratic Party, it has not led any "trend toward socialism." (Cf. Higgins, Man as Man, p. 226). Regulation of business or the use of property is not socialism. Socialism is the outright ownership by government of all productive goods. Would some one offer to prove that this was and has been the intent of the Democratic Party? The "trend toward socialism" is a slogan, designed to hook the thoughtless and naive.

As for modernizing our military establishment—Eisenhower has—to the point where we can not fulfill our existing international commitments. The Administration's policy has been to rely on the threat of H-bombing to deter all kinds of wars. It has virtually promised us that the next war will be fought with H-bombs. Incinerator, anyone?

As for maintaining the dignity of the Presidency—Eisenhower has—by sacrificing all pretence of leadership. He has not exhibited any willingness to lead; whether it be his Cabinet, Congress or Public Opinion. What good is such dignity? It is the dignity of a cold senseless tombstone.

Thus, Ike's "accomplishments" are really specifications in the indictment of his Administration. Competence! when nobody knows who makes policy or what the policy is but everybody knows that Sherman Adams is the man to see! Honesty! with Talbot, Mansure, Hall, Chotiner, Hodges, etc. etc. etc!

For four years we have been treated to the spectacle of an honored military man, acting as the "front" for a disjointed conglomeration of political factions.

by rob pula

In the September 26 installment of this column, wherein I proclaimed the founding of The Party, I touched lightly on the farm problem as it exists in America today. Now I would like to touch the same problem. This time heavily. Specifically, I would like (I really would) to discuss with you, Dearest Reader, the problem of our farm surplus. (For the reader who is not familiar with this problem, let me point out that the term farm surplus does not mean that we have a surplus of farms. Most authorities on this subject seem to feel that the number of farms in America is just right.) The problem, then, is too much food and what to do with it.

Many attempts at solving this delicious dilemma have been made. Many others have been suggested. These include such harebrained ideas as (1) giving the food away, (2) burying the food and (3) the most recent and preposterous idea (actually being put into practice by the present administration) putting the food into a bank. Obviously, this is carrying the Federal Reserve System to a ridiculous extreme.

Well, Reader, you don't have to be a latter-day Malthus to realize that of all of these plans are fruitless. What then, are we to do?

I SAY LET'S EAT IT. Share my vision. I see bonfires crackling across the land. I see Americans, laughing and singing and eating. I see Americans, engaging in a new roly-poly patriotism, laughing and singing and eating. There they are—the heroically obese people of America, laughing and eating. My vision projects further and further and I see Americans eating. O, the glory, the wonder, the dedication. Across the length, breadth, width,

Who are the Eisenhower Republicans? Humphrey? Nixon? Knowland? Jenner? Welker? Stassen? There are none. Furthermore, the only program presented to us by the Republicans is to trust in Ike. Ike, himself, has asked us to believe that God has given him a special assurance that he will survive for four more years. This is the old infantryman's delusion that he will survive even though the casualty rate is 110%.

I want a responsible leader! I want party government! I have not gotten either of these from the Republicans. I have some hope from the Democrats. Therefore, it IS time for a change. We have had enough.

OAB

To the Editor of the Greyhound,

In the scurilous attack which you launched on Adlai Stevenson in your last issue you missed completely (or at least ignored) the main fault of the Eisenhower clique and the main reason why it is imperative that the present group must be turned out of office at the first opportunity—NOW!

President Eisenhower is a military man by virtue of his lifetime of army service. And what sort of record have military men made in the past? Well, there was Grant and Jackson, to take two pertinent girth, diameter, circumference, Alaska, Hawaii, and depth of the land I see a people collapsed and gasping and smiling.

Were we to loosen our belts and dispose of our excess food in so natural a way, every citizen would become obese, and it is from this growth in natural resources that the benefits shall spring.

All citizens would require larger sized clothes. This need would spur the clothing industry to a muslin marathon. Construction of new plants would spur steel production. Sheep-herders and producers of synthetic fabrics would make so much money that new banks would be required.

The increased size of the average citizen will cause a boom in every area of the economy. Larger homes will be needed. All the things which go into homes, furniture, bath tubs, foot baths, all would have to be produced in larger sizes.

Are you following, Citizen? These are only suggestions of what could happen. One would need a rather large book to contain all the wondrous changes a per capita weight gain of fifty pounds would bring.

Hear more.

The drug industry would receive its biggest shot in the arm since the discovery of disease. Bicarbonate of soda, alone, would be needed in such gross quantities that great new water reservoir systems would need be constructed to handle the increased demand for a dissolving agent.

But is there any point in going further? I think you see that a new socio-industrio-economic (not to mention cultural) revolution is in the making. We can make a new and better America simply by doing our bit.

Dinner, O America, is served.

examples. What sort of record did they leave the people who were stupid enough to elect them?

Corruption, plain and simple!

They made these records, not on their own viciousness and rapacity, but merely because they, too, were military men—men completely unable to serve competently in elective office. I fear the same thing is going to happen to Ike because, for all his folksy ways, he is a rank amateur in the political arena.

I call upon you and all my fellow students to save this country from the hands of a well-meaning amateur. I call for the election of a real politician to a real political office. Adlai Stevenson is that sort of man—a man who knows fully the nature of the office. His governorship of Illinois and his long service as an American delegate to the United Nations qualifies him in every way to hold down the most trying and vital job in the world.

$41,000 CONTEST

Open to All College Students (Faculty, too!)

Nothing to buy...nothing to write

...and you may find you know more about people than you think!

How well do you know human nature? Can you tell what subjects interest people most? Here is a chance to test your judgment—show how good an editor you are—and you may win $5,000 for yourself, plus $5,000 in scholarship funds for your college.

It's fun to try. Maybe you can top other students in colleges across the country . . . and you can match wits with the editors of Reader's Digest.

Why do far more college graduates read Reader's Digest than any other magazine? What is it that makes the Digest the most widely read magazine in the world—with 11 million copies bought each month in the United States, plus 9 million abroad? Why is it read each month by at least 60 million people, in 12 languages—Arabic, Danish, English, Finnish, French, German, Italian, Japanese, Norwegian, Portuguese, Spanish and Swedish?

Can you spot in a typical issue of Reader's Digest the universal human values that link scholars, statesmen, scientists, writers, businessmen, housewives? Can you pick out the articles that will be most popular with the average Digest reader?

You may find . . . you know more about people than you think!

Here's all you do. Study the descriptions (at right) of the articles in the October Reader's Digest—or, better still, read the complete articles in the issue itself. (But you are not required to buy The Reader's Digest to enter the contest.) Then simply list the six articles—in order of preference—that you think readers of the magazine will like best. This will be compared with a nationwide survey conducted among a cross section of Digest subscribers.

Follow the directions given below. Fill in the entry blank, paste it on a post card, and get it into the mail before the deadline. Additional blanks are obtainable at your college bookstore.

All entries must be postmarked not later than midnight, October 25, 1956. Don't delay. In case of ties, the entry with the earliest postmark will win.

Just pick in order the six articles you think most readers of October
Reader's Digest will like the best.

READER'S DIGEST CONTEST, Box 4, Great Neck, L. I., New York

In the space opposite the word "FIRST" write the number of the article you think will be the most popular of all. Opposite the word "SECOND" write the number of the article you think will rank second in popularity. List in this way the numbers of the six top articles in the order of their popularity. (Note: Use only the numbers of articles you choose. Do not write the title of any article.) Clip and paste this coupon on a Government post card.

Freshmen Win At Rugby, 5-1

Evergreen, Oct. 5 . . . The annual fresh-soph rugby game took place here today with the freshmen taking the decision, 5-1.

The gentlemen of the sophomore class, although slightly outnumbered, held off a determined pup drive in the first half and kept the score at 1-1. Most of the fine defensive work on the part of the sophs was done by Anselm Trouvis and his faithful sidekick, Reeny Goonfelt. These two fought with a determination very seldom witnessed in a game of this sort.

At this point the sly freshies brought forth their secret weapon, a two hundred and eighty-four pound scat back by the name of Raymond Clavney. Clavney literally tore the helpless defenders apart. In the first minute of play he had maimed five sophs, a referee, three spectators and a reporter from the New York Times.

Refs Outstanding

The referees are to be especially congratulated on their fine job of officiating. Jim Henneman, senior official, drew the praise of player and fan for a well called game. This was Jim's first big league assignment.

guess since Larson pitched the big one the Orioles are fools for letting him go, sure!

The freshman dance went off a lot better this year, seeing as the Colts weren't on T.V. . . . that Lion game was rough . . . at least the Lions were.

Who is the TIGER playing second base for Col. Minot . . . whoever he is he's a real chatterbox . . . probably can't hit.

Should Referees Run?

There seems to be a question in the mind of many of the freshmen and sophomores around school as to whether it is ethical for a referee of a rugby game to take to his heels at the conclusion of a game.

One of the officials in this year's game had good reason to leave the field in no small haste, he was afraid to face the consequences. As a matter of fact, he was the first one in the pool anyway.

Benzing and McCarron Captains See Pitch Title

Planning to lead coach Tom Lind's aggregation of experienced pitchers to the Mason-Dixon title are two of the most capable athletes on the Evergreen campus. They are co-captains Jack Benzing and Gerry McCarron.

Gerry McCarron

Benzing, a resident of Highlandtown and a graduate of Mt. St. Joe, is in his fourth campaign of soccer at Loyola. At St. Joe, along with soccer he excelled in football, basketball and track.

For the past three seasons, Jack has been named on the All Mason-Dixon Conference teams. As a center halfback last year, he was one of the main reasons for Loyola's ability to hold the top teams of the league to ties.

As an ace pitcher on the Loyola baseball nine and as a guard with the basketball team, Jack is generally considered by all to be a great competitor. His calmness and fast thinking helps him in all sports.

His capability and personality helped him become elected as vice-president of the senior class.

A political science major, Jack is usually seen with Earl Hamper, Joe Murray or the "Redbird", George Leyh. Jack plans a career in either law or management after his days at Loyola. He is also ready to serve his country as a member of the National Guard.

The other stalwart member of the Green and Grey booters is Gerry McCarron. Gerry is a graduate of Calvert Hall where he led the Cardinals in soccer and baseball.

Gerry will enter his third season as center forward on the soccer team. He had the misfortune of missing one season because of injury.

His greatest thrill was when the Hounds beat Baltimore University who were then the Champs. Gerry looks for this year to be "a good season for sports all around", and is looking forward to the opener against Maryland at College Park. Last year, the mighty Terps were held to a 1-1 deadlock on the Evergreen field.

Figuring to attend Law school next year, Gerry like Jack is a political Science major.

A REMINDER

The start of the basketball season is not as far away as you think. For the benefit of freshmen and others forgetful, we remind you that admission to all home games will be free to students this year.

BUT: If you want this to work for you you must obtain a basketball book. All that will be required of you will be to appear at the gym with a picture of yourself and your activities card at a time to be announced soon.

SOCCER TEAM TO FACE TOWSON TODAY

Hounds Led By, Billeb, Top R-M Terps Top Greyhounds, 3-0

The Loyola College Cross country team opened their '56 season on October 6, by trouncing Randolph Macon on the losers' course.

Kenny Billeb continued to prove himself the top runner for the Green and Grey as he picked up where he left off last year, winning the meet in the record time of 17:30. Paul Sherman, a freshman, running his first race for the Hounds, was second and his time also broke the existing standard.

Third was Don Burton, also a freshman, and surprisingly enough his time was also well under the course record.

Billeb Wins In Stretch

Sherman led during the greater part of the race and it was only in the final stretch that Billeb summoned a burst of speed and passed the youngster with yards to spare. Burton, who is running cross country for the first time in his life, was only 17 seconds behind the two front men.

Basketball

COURT TEAM TO DRILL SOON

Within the month, Coach Lefty Reitz will begin working out the kinks in his Mason-Dixon champions in preparation for another grueling basketball season.

The Greyhound mentor, in his seventeenth year, will have a total of eleven lettermen returning. To brighten the picture all the more, five or six sophomores will get their first chance to try for the varsity.

Staiti, Dodd Back

Among the best of the returnees are Jim Staiti, Paul Dodd, Denny McGuire and Gene Grimes. Staiti, bothered by a knee injury sustained in his second year, is expected to carry most of the scoring load. Dodd may prove to be the surprise of the team if he should maintain the "hot hand" which he demonstrated in several of last year's games.

Grimes and McGuire will be the key men on defense, McGuire being a good rebounder and the shorter Grimes having a talent for stealing the ball.

George Leyh, at 6' 7", will hold down the center spot. Leyh played "spotty" ball last year, but is expected to improve, both in smoothness and in scoring punch.

Guards Abound

The Green and Grey team will find its greatest wealth in the abundance of back court men. Jack Benzing, Earl Hamper, Jerry Komin and Tom Keys will be competing for the position of running mate with Grimes. Keys, like Dodd, is an effective scorer when "hot".

Harp Fitzgerald, Jack Cummings, Jim Henneman and Jim Fowler will also be gunning for a spot on the squad.

Schedule A Tough One

This year, the defending champs will face a slate which will, undoubtedly prove tougher than that of last year. Besides the Mason-Dixon opponents, which include some top notch teams, the Hounds

The showing of Burton was, by far, the most promising aspect of the race. Very seldom, in a sport of this nature is a newcomer able to produce the results that the Loyola High grad has done. Coach Bill McElroy says the boy has great potential and with training and hard work could easily be matching the number one and two men.

Jerry Frieze was the fourth man to finish, however, Jerry's time was far off the pace. McElroy feels that Frieze will not be long in coming around to his last year's form.

McElroy Cautions

Coach McElroy would not admit that this fine showing is of any significance, since R-M is not one of the stronger teams of the conference. He stated that a win over Johns Hopkins would be a much better indication of the squad's ability as a whole.

will have games with Seton Hall, St. Francis, Wagner and Xavier.

Seton Hall and St. Francis will prove the toughest foes and are expected to repeat their wins of last year. The biggest games, however, for Lefty and his men, will be those against Mt. St. Marys.

Intramurals

Football, Tennis Begin

Leo Pitches Shoes

The fall intramural program shifted into high gear last Wednesday with the first football games of the season.

Among the favorites to retain their preseason ratings were the senior A&Ts (short for antidisestablishmentarianists) who defeated one of the freshman teams by a 12-0 score. The A&Ts were led by returning All-Star linemen Joe Murray and Bobby Wintz. One of the newcomers to the squad, who showed great promise was Milt Borkowski, whose rugged line play drew gasps from the spectators.

Bohs Win

The junior Bohs also made the most of their first outing by gaining a tie for first place with a 10-8 victory. Micky McFadden, Joe Miraglia, Pete Martel and Jimmy Vaeth were the leaders in this win.

From the showing of the teams during the first week of the season, it appears as if this could prove to be one of the closest races of recent years.

Tennis Begins

Six contestants have entered the tennis singles competition in an effort to dethrone defending champ Paul Schied. Paul won the title in an upset victory over Tommy Coyle last year in a very close match.

Gunning for the sophomore's downfall, especially, will be Tom Sullivan and Frank Kirby. Both of these boys could give the champ a good battle.

Loyola's soccer team dropped a 3-0 decision to the University of Maryland last Wednesday, at College Park.

The visitors were outplayed during most of the game, but held off the strong Terrapin offence and enabled them to score only one regulation goal. Penalty kicks supplied the Maryland squad with their remaining markers.

First Quarter Close

During the better part of the first quarter, the Green and Grey held a slight advantage as they outhustled the home team. However, as the first half wore on, the U of M poured in a continual stream of fresh substitutes and the tiring Hounds committed two costly penalties within their own goal area which gave their opponents free shots at the goal.

See-Saw Second Half

Throughout the second half the ball was exchanged freely with Maryland getting the majority of the shots, one of which scored.

The most promising side of the game, for Loyola, was the fine showing of Paul DiPino in the goal, Jack Benzing at center half and Lou Hoffebert at fullback.

The Hounds play Towson Teachers today on the Teacher's field. This game should prove to be one of the best of the season. Both schools are eager to play off last year's tie and the winner could decide the M-D championship. This game is always a favorite with the crowd.

Leo Pitches Shoes

Leo Romeo and Don Rohr are expected to be the powers in the horseshoe pitching department.

This year's intramural program, as far as fall sports are concerned, was not as large as in the past, due mainly to the lack of student interest. Prospective stars are urged to prepare for the coming winter season.

SEASON BOOKS
AVAILABLE SOON

Season books for the coming basketball home games will be given to the student body during the coming month.

There is no charge for these books, however, the student must present a picture of himself to Lefty Reitz in the gymnasium. The pictures are attached to the book for identification.

If a book is not presented at the door for home games, a $1.25 charge will be levied.

GREYHOUND SPORTS

There will be some difficulty, in the weeks to come, among the "pro Don Newcombe" group, in defending Don's ability to come through in the clutch. The "fast balling" Dodger right hander seems to have waited until the biggest games to get his biggest lump. It seems strange to the average baseball fan that a pitcher who wins twenty-seven games during the regular season, which is no small feat, regardless of the scores, and who has pitched in organized baseball for a number of years, can completely fall apart when the pressure is on.

"Big Don" gave every appearance of being a cousin to the New York Yankees during the World Series, giving up gopher balls to three hitters, and lasting a total of very few innings in the two games. Perhaps "Newk" chose the wrong occupation, at least there is a parking lot attendant at Yankee Stadium who feels the big boy should definately be a contender for the heavy crown.

"Tiger" McElroy

During one of his informal sessions in the college book store, Bill McElroy stated that he did not approve of hand holding finishes in a cross country meet. Many schools advocate this type of horseplay if they have men in the first, second and third spots in a race. However, "Mac" says it takes the edge off a boy. Perhaps the best example of his strategy was the dog eat dog finish between Kenny Billeb and Paul Sherman in the Randolph-Macon meet.

Mac had the boys so keyed up they seemed to be mortal enemies coming down the stretch. By the way, they both broke the existing record. Keep it up Mac, barring any running fist fights, these two should really wake this conference up to a new c-v power.

Presenting A Problem

While we are on the subject of cross country there is a definite problem in this school which needs airing. Mac has said that there are boys in the school who could, if they would try, help the team a great deal. This is not only true in cross country but in several other sports as well. Wrestling, for instance. Loyola College has the worst wrestling team in the Mason Dixon conference.

Can we say that this is the fault of the coach or of the boys who do their best to win? No. It is the fault of those boys who finish their classes in the afternoon and immediately take off for their respective neighborhoods. Perhaps you don't feel that winning a varsity letter is an honor. Alright, but at least you could have enough school spirit to resent your school's being the laughing stock of the conference. Many of you can wrestle and run and swim, maybe you're not good, but you can be trained and you can play hard and sooner or later you will be good enough to win.

This lacadasical attitude is affecting not only the athletics of the school but also the other extra curricular activities. There is much more than a winning team at stake, these activities are held for your benefit. Give up your ice cream parlor a few afternoons a week and do yourself a favor.
